

interdisciplinary one. The remarkable dedication displayed by the committee members and their promotion of the event to their respective colleagues allowed creating a similar dynamic within their networks, multiplied by hundreds of participants. The fruits of their labour benefitted from the vitality injected in the project by the executive members of the Quebec Public Health Association, with the support of the event's principal financial partners, namely, the Quebec Ministry of Health and Social Services and the Public Health Agency of Canada.

Birthing the World brought together 722 participants from all sectors connected to perinatal care, from across Quebec, Canada and elsewhere. These included researchers, physicians, nurses, midwives, doulas, professors, social workers, psychologists, and lactation consultants. In other words, converging on one and the same place were people who, while working in the same field, seldom have the chance to share their experiences and interrogations or to report the results of their research and the effects of their practices.

Birthing the World consisted of 148 speakers, 6 plenary conferences, 30 symposia, 25 workshops, 50 oral presentations, 17 poster presentations and an expertise fair spotlighting 20 community organizations from across Canada. All abstracts were evaluated by three scientific sub-committees: the sub-committee on childbirth chaired by Céline Lemay of the Quebec Midwives Association and Dr. Maxine Dumas-Pilon of the AOPQ; the sub-committee on breastfeeding chaired by Carole Dobrich of INFAC²-Québec; and the sub-committee on becoming parents chaired by Chantale Audet of the Quebec Public Health Institute. The book of abstracts evaluated by the Scientific Committee is available at www.birthingtheworld.com.

In the opinion of approximately 50% of the participants who filled out the online evaluation after the event, this conference stood apart for its originality and contributed to pool our respective viewpoints and expertise regarding the perinatal period and the first two years of life. Indeed, this gathering constituted a unique opportunity to learn about, discuss and debate current strategies for promoting health, providing accompaniment and support, and carrying out clinical interventions in the field of perinatal care and services. The exchanges and collaborations generated by the event fostered the sharing of knowledge that all too often remains compartmentalized, in addition to advancing the cause of greater integration and continuity of services in perinatal care. Above all, these exchanges contributed to further the process of reflection and to take concrete actions concerning the humanization of care for women, babies and families.

The very positive response to Birthing the World reflects the fact that our capacity to talk to one another has reached a new level of maturity and points to our vital need for collaboration, beginning with our different accompaniment and practice settings. This highpoint for the Quebec perinatal care community paves the way for us to conceive and carry out actions in concert with one another. These include establishing institutional settings for interdisciplinary exchange, offering more targeted training, supporting practice communities through the dissemination of written documents, and resuming our advocacy role on behalf of women and young families, particularly the most vulnerable among them. In the end, this conference leaves in its wake an energized network better inclined to work cooperatively for the better being of families during the earliest years of life.

Martin St-André: Perinatal and infant psychiatrist, CHU Sainte-Justine; Associate Clinical Professor, Université de Montréal; Chair, Birthing The World Scientific Committee; President, Association québécoise pour la santé mentale des nourrissons (WAIMH-Quebec) (martin.st-andreumontreal.ca).

Catherine Chouinard : Project Manager for Perinatal Care Issues, Association pour la santé publique du Québec (Quebec Public Health Association); Birthing The World Scientific Coordinator (cchouinard@aspq.org).

Affiliates Corner Jan 2011

Welcome to 2011.

At the end of last year we invited WAIMH affiliate presidents as representatives of their affiliates to participate in a brief survey.

Most affiliates participated and the responses have been collated into a WAIMH Affiliate profile document that will be readily available to Presidents and will be posted on the WAIMH website afterwards. Inclusive of biographical information and organizational structure variances, there is also information concerning a vast array of training, service and education activities being conducted across the affiliates.

This is a wonderful first working document. A dynamic document that can function as base from which to explore and inspire our relationships as affiliates and with WAIMH.

Thank you to all those who were able to contribute to this document. Special thanks also to Leena Kiuru in the WAIMH office for her enduring editorial support.

Our next key initiative is to run another survey in the first part of 2011. This time the focus will be on the specific needs of affiliates. Responses to this survey will potentially yield a rich cross cultural needs assessment while also highlighting areas of shared concern. Information from this survey will be used to guide issues of affiliate resourcing among the affiliates and in partnership with WAIMH, so we can all engage as fully as possible with the aims of WAIMH.

We also use this opportunity to remind all Affiliates Presidents to renew their WAIMH memberships and to regularly inform the central office (office@waimh.org) about changes in their officers or contact information.

As we are progressively moving towards a more bidirectional communication with the Affiliates, we also wish to encourage Affiliates to use their mailing lists for circulating WAIMH invitations and updates.

Maree Foley, MPhil (Dist)
Affiliate Council Representative

Martin St-André, MDCM
Chair of Affiliate Council